

RUSH FRESH MEN TO AID ANTWERP AGAINST TEUTONS

Amsterdam Dispatches State Heavy Expeditionary Force of Artillery and Naval Guns to Man Inner Circle of Forts.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—According to dispatches from Amsterdam an expeditionary force of troops in great strength consisting mainly of artillery and naval detachments of heavy guns, has been rushed to Antwerp from the territory west of Ghent and Thursday night has manned the inner ring of forts, relieving the Belgian defenders who have been withdrawn to the city proper and held in reserve. Five German army corps numbering approximately 125,000 men and supported by 16-inch (42-centimetre) and 10-inch (25-centimetre) siege guns, who effected a crossing of the Nethe river near Lierre on Tuesday, have broken through the outer ring of forts and are now approaching the inner circle and are conducting a furious bombardment of the city with deadly effect.

(Note: The above dispatch as transmitted, appears with the nationality of the relieving forces deleted. Previous reports have indicated the presence of an additional expeditionary force of British troops on the northern coast of France and Belgium, and it is believed that the newly appearing army in Antwerp are British troops whose presence in Belgium, the war office for strategic reasons is not yet ready to admit. The presence of Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the British admiralty in Antwerp a few days ago, taken in conjunction with the arrival of a British naval force with naval guns, is significant.)

The German siege is being conducted from their sides, the northeast, east and the south, the last being the scene of the most determined assaults. Most terrifying, however, is the aerial attack on the city. Zeppelins and Taubes are keeping up an almost incessant rain of bombs, inflicting great damage on the fortifications and in the city and many houses blown up by the projectiles. More than 100,000 inhabitants of Antwerp have fled to Holland in terror and the remainder of the non-combatants have huddled in their cellars where shrapnel, shells and bombs from the air are making life a nightmare.

Before dawn today six Zeppelins had flown over the city in the night dropping bombs, several of which struck the Palais de Justice, damaging it severely. Today a Zeppelin flying over the fortifications dropped a bomb in an oil tank at Hoboken, setting it afire. The other nearby tanks were hastily drained to prevent the spread of the flames.

Belgians Worsted in Air.
Several battles in the air have occurred, Belgian aviators engaging the Taube aeroplanes with little success because of the inferior type of the Belgian air craft. After a furious night attack the bombardment was renewed at dawn today with greatly increased vigor. So fierce has the battle of Krupp's been against the men and so deadly was the aim of the German gunners in the hurling of their shrapnel and shell that the trenches had become almost untenable. Even the 28-centimetre guns now have the city and the many shells have fallen in the Place Verte, near the Antwerp cathedral.

A dispatch from Rosendaal in North Brabant, north of Antwerp, says the bombardment of the Belgium temporary capital is so violent a character that houses in Rosendaal visibly shook. Thousands of refugees have reached there and more are expected tonight. Several wounded civilians are among the refugees. A red glare illuminates the sky tonight in the direction of Antwerp. The Dutch government has ordered all trains at Rosendaal to be held for the transport of fugitives and the injured from Antwerp.

The Belgian ministers have removed to Ostend, going via Flanders. Conflicting reports concerning the whereabouts of King Albert have reached London. One report says the king and his queen remain in the city, the king directing the defense and the queen ministering to the wounded in the hospitals. Another is that the king left with his ministers and is now in Ostend.

Besides making a successful crossing of the Nethe river, the Germans have brought up another strong force to the attack of Antwerp from the village of West Malle, about 12 miles east of northeast from Antwerp.

Open Siege Artillery.
Before crossing the Nethe an advance which they effected with their heavy artillery after being repeatedly beaten back by the Belgians, the Germans fired the city of Lierre and their crossing was made in the light of the conflagration. During this time the enemy had attacked the Belgian positions between Lierre and Duffeld, but had been repulsed. They then brought up their heavy guns and succeeded in dislodging the Belgian artillery, whereupon several thousand Germans were thrown across the river. These held their position on the opposite bank until stronger forces could be brought across and finally they succeeded in establishing themselves impregnable. They then brought their heavy siege artillery to the new positions and the attack was begun in earnest.

By 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning the siege had reached its height and the population of Antwerp was terror-stricken. The wide avenue leading to the railroad station was packed by thousands fleeing in feverish haste for the north. Many physical and mental invalids were being borne through the streets by their relatives and their condition in many cases was pitiful. At 6 o'clock in the evening the fear of the people was allayed by reports from the forts that the troops would be able successfully to resist the German attack and some even expressed the hope that the newly arrived force would be able to hurl the enemy back across the Nethe. The guns, it was stated, were proving far superior to the Germans.

Claim Big Capture.
The Berlin dispatch says the Germans claim to have captured four heavy batteries in their field operations before Antwerp, besides 52 field guns and 50 machine guns.

The Berlin war office, according to a dispatch received here via the Hague, states that not only have the outer forts been reduced, but that the inner line has suffered considerably and the fall of the city is a question of but a short time.

A late dispatch from Amsterdam says the trenches along the Scheldt still hold. It is apparent that the Germans are determined to reduce Antwerp for one of three reasons. Either they intend to establish a line from Antwerp to Brussels, Namur and Metz, in case the army in France is forced to retreat, or they are determined to bring about the virtual dispersion of the Belgian army, whose active presence has kept two or three German army corps engaged and constantly on the watch, or else they are determined to prevent a junction between the allied army in France and the Belgian army operating near the French frontier.

SEEK ACCOMPLICE

Charge Two With Pushing Man Off Train.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 9.—Following the arrest in Little Rock, Ark., Thursday of Mrs. John B. Anderson, widow of a wealthy real estate dealer from Waco, Texas, who died from injuries when he fell from a Rock Island train near Forest City, Ark., Memphis detectives have begun a search for a man believed to be an accomplice to the crime and who it is said is hiding in Memphis. Mrs. Anderson is in jail at Little Rock with a charge of first degree murder against her.

Harry Coltart, ticket agent at the Grand Central passenger station in Memphis, told the police he sold Mrs. Anderson two tickets from Memphis to Waco, via Little Rock. The authorities claim to have eye witnesses to the crime when Mrs. Anderson and her accomplice enticed Anderson to the rear of the train and shoved him off.

When the woman bought the two tickets said Coltart, she took out a $10,000 insurance policy on Anderson.

TUBERCULOSIS OF GLANDS SUCCESSFULLY TREATED

HILDA MINER

After suffering 17 years with tuberculosis of the glands, Miss Hilda Miner, 169 E. Market street, Indianapolis, Ind., has recovered, according to her statement. "I am now feeling fine," she writes, "appetite and sleep are good and my stomach now bothers me. I do not have any symptoms whatever and owe my recovery to Nature's Creation."

Continuing, she states, "When I was nine months old a running sore appeared on the left side of my neck. Several physicians called it scrofula and others called it tuberculosis of the glands. I was also troubled with catarrh. Physicians and their treatment did not do me any good. In May, 1913, I saw an article in the paper how Nature's Creation had cured so many persons of tuberculosis and so began taking the medicine. I was 18 years old and had been sick practically all my life. My appetite was poor, sleep was not good, was nervous and occasionally had trouble with my stomach. I took Nature's Creation regularly and now the sore on my neck has entirely healed, the first time in over 17 years."

Nature's Creation is effective not only in cases of tuberculosis of the glands, but in all forms of tuberculosis and the conditions which lead to it, such as weak lungs, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, run-down system and impure blood. Our new booklet, "Truth," provides full information, and contains photos and testimonials from local parties. Write for free copy, M. L. Haymann, 417 State Life Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.
